

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1896.

The last rainy day of the season. Scotland is overcast with Americans. Western prairies are swarming with hundreds of thousands.

Salmon are now found in the Thames. The cholera has more victims in clear than in stormy weather. The President is busy collecting material for his annual message.

The Republicans of New York are drawing on the members of the fire department for political funds. They have been catching five-pound lads in the cellars of Dayton, Ohio, during the flood.

Warm days have done wonders for the vines of France. A new jewelry establishment in New York is styled "The diamond parlor."

Monks are about to reach London to howl for the restoration of the papacy. The Queen of Hanover was noted for her charity and loving kindness.

In Paris, the dresses of ladies are vanquished. What's that? An extra tilt? An American is teaching Johnny Bull the science of horsemanship.

It takes a whole year for one man to make a square yard of tapestry. In California, a Chinaman cannot testify against a white man or a negro.

The people of Arizona are impatient at Congress for not making a law to prevent Oregon from shipping $1,000,000 in treasure during the last eight months.

A Sacramento establishment turns out 24,000 cans of preserved fruit. A Washington soldier stole the artificial leg of his sleeping comrade.

Fifty "tried and true men" have sailed from California to join the army. Ex-Governor John S. Shelly is running a wagon train in Mexico.

In England "old faced type" is regarded as the most elegant letter in typography. In respect of "conductivity" the old cable is better than the new.

The New Haven Register has been greatly enlarged. It could not be improved. A New York critic advises Bismarck not to wear white stockings in Maria Stuarda.

A bridge 22 miles long and 214 feet wide, cost $60,000,000, is talked of at Dover, England. The "bright, pretty, arch and pigmy" actress, Miss Lydia Thompson, is coming to America.

Katie Moore committed suicide in Chicago. She is no more. Mem. for agriculturists—every Fair should have attractive features.

Another strenuous effort is to be made for the consolidation of New York and Brooklyn. The vines of California are loaded down with fruit of unusual size and sweetness.

Texas has exported within a short time a million dollars worth of cattle. A literary man in Montreal has "levanted" with $25,000.

A young Englishman in New York, who has been engaged to marry, has been made heir to $50,000. A Connecticut husband has cowered a photographer for selling photographs of his wife disguised with whiskers.

England has a Sisterhood of the Dried-eyes, who are to escape maiden notoriety by being educated for nurses in India. The names of Edwin Booth "and a young and accomplished lady of Philadelphia" make current matrimonial gossip.

Philadelphia officials once denied Gen. Andrew Jackson the hospitalities of the city, as they did Andrew Johnson. Forty-eight millions of gallons of petroleum oil have been shipped from the United States in the last year.

The English build iron-clad eight inches thick, and then make a rifle gun which will pierce it as if it were a pine plank. The Empress Charlotte wants possession of her husband for her husband's use, but there is a little family difficulty about the money.

Mr. Sampson, of Middleboro, deeming it his duty to hang himself last week, conscientiously performed the duty. Give Greece the density of population that Massachusetts has, and it would be the wealthiest State in the Union.

Mark Twain writes to a life insurance company to know if they will pay him money on a dog-life that they do on an earthquake. Hard things are said about King Victor Emanuel—some say he is a monster.

He is held responsible for all Italian blunders in the late crisis. During the rebellion the United States expended annually more money for the support of armies than all the nations of Europe expended in supporting the enormous armies they maintain.

At a Russian dinner the orchestra was supplanted when the officers of our squadron called for Hail Columbia. The manager expressed his regrets, but he had never seen the man.

A prisoner in the Pennsylvania State Prison was some time since uttering blasphemous remarks about Jesus Christ, but he was struck with apoplexy and died immediately.

An English journal as a spokesman, a tattle-tale, and a spy. He wasn't an Englishman, thank heaven. The Russians are a very eccentric people. If they get drunk, as they often do, it shows itself in surprising kindness.

But, being confined to the male sex, the practice is not very popular among the American visitors. Prince Galitzin, a nephew of the Governor of Moscow, entertained the officers of our squadron with a princely dinner at his banquet hall, built in the time of Catherine II., and still maintained in the original style.

A case is now on trial at Milwaukee, Wis., in which the plaintiff claims a division of the proceeds of a lawsuit between himself and the defendant in 1838. The business of the firm remained unsettled for years after the death of the defendant, but before the firm was dissolved, the defendant became rich out of the business. The plaintiff claims a large amount as his part of the proceeds of the business.

A mysterious robbery has taken place at Hartford, Mr. Wilcox, before going to Europe, is confident he made a special deposit of $20,000 in U. S. securities in the Hartford Bank. Upon his return he found the deposit had been made, but he could not remember that he made the deposit. Mr. Wilcox is confident that he did. One of the bonds has been traced to Philadelphia, where it was exchanged for a five-cent note. No other clue appears to the robbers.

At the recent International Workingmen's Congress, held at Geneva, a discussion took place under the best means of maintaining the rate of wages. At the close of the debate the following proposition was adopted: "While admitting that in all cases, the rate of wages is a state of war, workers should not aid to one another for the defense of their wages, the Congress declares that there is higher object to be attained by the suppression of the wages principle—recognition of the study and practice of economical processes based on justice and reciprocity."

The penal hospital of the Russians to the American naval officers knows no bounds. After a most suspicious reception given by Prince Galitzin, a young man of immense income, they were entertained by a lively sea-fight on the lake, between two ships, which sailed around each other in radiant style, hammering away like good fellows for a while, and then blowing up with great violence, and filling the air with various colored stars, rockets, serpents, and we know not what all, ended the display, which was witnessed and admired by thousands of people collected in the park by permission of the Prince.

LOUISVILLE JOURNAL

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1896.

The last rainy day of the season. Scotland is overcast with Americans. Western prairies are swarming with hundreds of thousands.

Salmon are now found in the Thames. The cholera has more victims in clear than in stormy weather. The President is busy collecting material for his annual message.

The Republicans of New York are drawing on the members of the fire department for political funds. They have been catching five-pound lads in the cellars of Dayton, Ohio, during the flood.

Warm days have done wonders for the vines of France. A new jewelry establishment in New York is styled "The diamond parlor."

Monks are about to reach London to howl for the restoration of the papacy. The Queen of Hanover was noted for her charity and loving kindness.

In Paris, the dresses of ladies are vanquished. What's that? An extra tilt? An American is teaching Johnny Bull the science of horsemanship.

It takes a whole year for one man to make a square yard of tapestry. In California, a Chinaman cannot testify against a white man or a negro.

The people of Arizona are impatient at Congress for not making a law to prevent Oregon from shipping $1,000,000 in treasure during the last eight months.

A Sacramento establishment turns out 24,000 cans of preserved fruit. A Washington soldier stole the artificial leg of his sleeping comrade.

Fifty "tried and true men" have sailed from California to join the army. Ex-Governor John S. Shelly is running a wagon train in Mexico.

In England "old faced type" is regarded as the most elegant letter in typography. In respect of "conductivity" the old cable is better than the new.

The New Haven Register has been greatly enlarged. It could not be improved. A New York critic advises Bismarck not to wear white stockings in Maria Stuarda.

A bridge 22 miles long and 214 feet wide, cost $60,000,000, is talked of at Dover, England. The "bright, pretty, arch and pigmy" actress, Miss Lydia Thompson, is coming to America.

Katie Moore committed suicide in Chicago. She is no more. Mem. for agriculturists—every Fair should have attractive features.

Another strenuous effort is to be made for the consolidation of New York and Brooklyn. The vines of California are loaded down with fruit of unusual size and sweetness.

Texas has exported within a short time a million dollars worth of cattle. A literary man in Montreal has "levanted" with $25,000.

A young Englishman in New York, who has been engaged to marry, has been made heir to $50,000. A Connecticut husband has cowered a photographer for selling photographs of his wife disguised with whiskers.

England has a Sisterhood of the Dried-eyes, who are to escape maiden notoriety by being educated for nurses in India. The names of Edwin Booth "and a young and accomplished lady of Philadelphia" make current matrimonial gossip.

Philadelphia officials once denied Gen. Andrew Jackson the hospitalities of the city, as they did Andrew Johnson. Forty-eight millions of gallons of petroleum oil have been shipped from the United States in the last year.

The English build iron-clad eight inches thick, and then make a rifle gun which will pierce it as if it were a pine plank. The Empress Charlotte wants possession of her husband for her husband's use, but there is a little family difficulty about the money.

Mr. Sampson, of Middleboro, deeming it his duty to hang himself last week, conscientiously performed the duty. Give Greece the density of population that Massachusetts has, and it would be the wealthiest State in the Union.

Mark Twain writes to a life insurance company to know if they will pay him money on a dog-life that they do on an earthquake. Hard things are said about King Victor Emanuel—some say he is a monster.

He is held responsible for all Italian blunders in the late crisis. During the rebellion the United States expended annually more money for the support of armies than all the nations of Europe expended in supporting the enormous armies they maintain.

At a Russian dinner the orchestra was supplanted when the officers of our squadron called for Hail Columbia. The manager expressed his regrets, but he had never seen the man.

A prisoner in the Pennsylvania State Prison was some time since uttering blasphemous remarks about Jesus Christ, but he was struck with apoplexy and died immediately.

An English journal as a spokesman, a tattle-tale, and a spy. He wasn't an Englishman, thank heaven. The Russians are a very eccentric people. If they get drunk, as they often do, it shows itself in surprising kindness.

But, being confined to the male sex, the practice is not very popular among the American visitors. Prince Galitzin, a nephew of the Governor of Moscow, entertained the officers of our squadron with a princely dinner at his banquet hall, built in the time of Catherine II., and still maintained in the original style.

A case is now on trial at Milwaukee, Wis., in which the plaintiff claims a division of the proceeds of a lawsuit between himself and the defendant in 1838. The business of the firm remained unsettled for years after the death of the defendant, but before the firm was dissolved, the defendant became rich out of the business. The plaintiff claims a large amount as his part of the proceeds of the business.

A mysterious robbery has taken place at Hartford, Mr. Wilcox, before going to Europe, is confident he made a special deposit of $20,000 in U. S. securities in the Hartford Bank. Upon his return he found the deposit had been made, but he could not remember that he made the deposit. Mr. Wilcox is confident that he did. One of the bonds has been traced to Philadelphia, where it was exchanged for a five-cent note. No other clue appears to the robbers.

At the recent International Workingmen's Congress, held at Geneva, a discussion took place under the best means of maintaining the rate of wages. At the close of the debate the following proposition was adopted: "While admitting that in all cases, the rate of wages is a state of war, workers should not aid to one another for the defense of their wages, the Congress declares that there is higher object to be attained by the suppression of the wages principle—recognition of the study and practice of economical processes based on justice and reciprocity."

The penal hospital of the Russians to the American naval officers knows no bounds. After a most suspicious reception given by Prince Galitzin, a young man of immense income, they were entertained by a lively sea-fight on the lake, between two ships, which sailed around each other in radiant style, hammering away like good fellows for a while, and then blowing up with great violence, and filling the air with various colored stars, rockets, serpents, and we know not what all, ended the display, which was witnessed and admired by thousands of people collected in the park by permission of the Prince.

LOUISVILLE JOURNAL

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1896.

The last rainy day of the season. Scotland is overcast with Americans. Western prairies are swarming with hundreds of thousands.

Salmon are now found in the Thames. The cholera has more victims in clear than in stormy weather. The President is busy collecting material for his annual message.

The Republicans of New York are drawing on the members of the fire department for political funds. They have been catching five-pound lads in the cellars of Dayton, Ohio, during the flood.

Warm days have done wonders for the vines of France. A new jewelry establishment in New York is styled "The diamond parlor."

Monks are about to reach London to howl for the restoration of the papacy. The Queen of Hanover was noted for her charity and loving kindness.

In Paris, the dresses of ladies are vanquished. What's that? An extra tilt? An American is teaching Johnny Bull the science of horsemanship.

It takes a whole year for one man to make a square yard of tapestry. In California, a Chinaman cannot testify against a white man or a negro.

The people of Arizona are impatient at Congress for not making a law to prevent Oregon from shipping $1,000,000 in treasure during the last eight months.

A Sacramento establishment turns out 24,000 cans of preserved fruit. A Washington soldier stole the artificial leg of his sleeping comrade.

Fifty "tried and true men" have sailed from California to join the army. Ex-Governor John S. Shelly is running a wagon train in Mexico.

In England "old faced type" is regarded as the most elegant letter in typography. In respect of "conductivity" the old cable is better than the new.

The New Haven Register has been greatly enlarged. It could not be improved. A New York critic advises Bismarck not to wear white stockings in Maria Stuarda.

A bridge 22 miles long and 214 feet wide, cost $60,000,000, is talked of at Dover, England. The "bright, pretty, arch and pigmy" actress, Miss Lydia Thompson, is coming to America.

Katie Moore committed suicide in Chicago. She is no more. Mem. for agriculturists—every Fair should have attractive features.

Another strenuous effort is to be made for the consolidation of New York and Brooklyn. The vines of California are loaded down with fruit of unusual size and sweetness.

Texas has exported within a short time a million dollars worth of cattle. A literary man in Montreal has "levanted" with $25,000.

A young Englishman in New York, who has been engaged to marry, has been made heir to $50,000. A Connecticut husband has cowered a photographer for selling photographs of his wife disguised with whiskers.

England has a Sisterhood of the Dried-eyes, who are to escape maiden notoriety by being educated for nurses in India. The names of Edwin Booth "and a young and accomplished lady of Philadelphia" make current matrimonial gossip.

Philadelphia officials once denied Gen. Andrew Jackson the hospitalities of the city, as they did Andrew Johnson. Forty-eight millions of gallons of petroleum oil have been shipped from the United States in the last year.

The English build iron-clad eight inches thick, and then make a rifle gun which will pierce it as if it were a pine plank. The Empress Charlotte wants possession of her husband for her husband's use, but there is a little family difficulty about the money.

Mr. Sampson, of Middleboro, deeming it his duty to hang himself last week, conscientiously performed the duty. Give Greece the density of population that Massachusetts has, and it would be the wealthiest State in the Union.

Mark Twain writes to a life insurance company to know if they will pay him money on a dog-life that they do on an earthquake. Hard things are said about King Victor Emanuel—some say he is a monster.

He is held responsible for all Italian blunders in the late crisis. During the rebellion the United States expended annually more money for the support of armies than all the nations of Europe expended in supporting the enormous armies they maintain.

At a Russian dinner the orchestra was supplanted when the officers of our squadron called for Hail Columbia. The manager expressed his regrets, but he had never seen the man.

A prisoner in the Pennsylvania State Prison was some time since uttering blasphemous remarks about Jesus Christ, but he was struck with apoplexy and died immediately.

An English journal as a spokesman, a tattle-tale, and a spy. He wasn't an Englishman, thank heaven. The Russians are a very eccentric people. If they get drunk, as they often do, it shows itself in surprising kindness.

But, being confined to the male sex, the practice is not very popular among the American visitors. Prince Galitzin, a nephew of the Governor of Moscow, entertained the officers of our squadron with a princely dinner at his banquet hall, built in the time of Catherine II., and still maintained in the original style.

A case is now on trial at Milwaukee, Wis., in which the plaintiff claims a division of the proceeds of a lawsuit between himself and the defendant in 1838. The business of the firm remained unsettled for years after the death of the defendant, but before the firm was dissolved, the defendant became rich out of the business. The plaintiff claims a large amount as his part of the proceeds of the business.

A mysterious robbery has taken place at Hartford, Mr. Wilcox, before going to Europe, is confident he made a special deposit of $20,000 in U. S. securities in the Hartford Bank. Upon his return he found the deposit had been made, but he could not remember that he made the deposit. Mr. Wilcox is confident that he did. One of the bonds has been traced to Philadelphia, where it was exchanged for a five-cent note. No other clue appears to the robbers.

At the recent International Workingmen's Congress, held at Geneva, a discussion took place under the best means of maintaining the rate of wages. At the close of the debate the following proposition was adopted: "While admitting that in all cases, the rate of wages is a state of war, workers should not aid to one another for the defense of their wages, the Congress declares that there is higher object to be attained by the suppression of the wages principle—recognition of the study and practice of economical processes based on justice and reciprocity."

The penal hospital of the Russians to the American naval officers knows no bounds. After a most suspicious reception given by Prince Galitzin, a young man of immense income, they were entertained by a lively sea-fight on the lake, between two ships, which sailed around each other in radiant style, hammering away like good fellows for a while, and then blowing up with great violence, and filling the air with various colored stars, rockets, serpents, and we know not what all, ended the display, which was witnessed and admired by thousands of people collected in the park by permission of the Prince.

LOUISVILLE JOURNAL

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1896.

The last rainy day of the season. Scotland is overcast with Americans. Western prairies are swarming with hundreds of thousands.

Salmon are now found in the Thames. The cholera has more victims in clear than in stormy weather. The President is busy collecting material for his annual message.

The Republicans of New York are drawing on the members of the fire department for political funds. They have been catching five-pound lads in the cellars of Dayton, Ohio, during the flood.

Warm days have done wonders for the vines of France. A new jewelry establishment in New York is styled "The diamond parlor."

Monks are about to reach London to howl for the restoration of the papacy. The Queen of Hanover was noted for her charity and loving kindness.

In Paris, the dresses of ladies are vanquished. What's that? An extra tilt? An American is teaching Johnny Bull the science of horsemanship.

It takes a whole year for one man to make a square yard of tapestry. In California, a Chinaman cannot testify against a white man or a negro.

The people of Arizona are impatient at Congress for not making a law to prevent Oregon from shipping $1,000,000 in treasure during the last eight months.

A Sacramento establishment turns out 24,000 cans of preserved fruit. A Washington soldier stole the artificial leg of his sleeping comrade.

Fifty "tried and true men" have sailed from California to join the army. Ex-Governor John S. Shelly is running a wagon train in Mexico.

In England "old faced type" is regarded as the most elegant letter in typography. In respect of "conductivity" the old cable is better than the new.

The New Haven Register has been greatly enlarged. It could not be improved. A New York critic advises Bismarck not to wear white stockings in Maria Stuarda.

A bridge 22 miles long and 214 feet wide, cost $60,000,000, is talked of at Dover, England. The "bright, pretty, arch and pigmy" actress, Miss Lydia Thompson, is coming to America.

Katie Moore committed suicide in Chicago. She is no more. Mem. for agriculturists—every Fair should have attractive features.

Another strenuous effort is to be made for the consolidation of New York and Brooklyn. The vines of California are loaded down with fruit of unusual size and sweetness.

Texas has exported within a short time a million dollars worth of cattle. A literary man in Montreal has "levanted" with $25,000.

A young Englishman in New York, who has been engaged to marry, has been made heir to $50,000. A Connecticut husband has cowered a photographer for selling photographs of his wife disguised with whiskers.

England has a Sisterhood of the Dried-eyes, who are to escape maiden notoriety by being educated for nurses in India. The names of Edwin Booth "and a young and accomplished lady of Philadelphia" make current matrimonial gossip.

Philadelphia officials once denied Gen. Andrew Jackson the hospitalities of the city, as they did Andrew Johnson. Forty-eight millions of gallons of petroleum oil have been shipped from the United States in the last year.

The English build iron-clad eight inches thick, and then make a rifle gun which will pierce it as if it were a pine plank. The Empress Charlotte wants possession of her husband for her husband's use, but there is a little family difficulty about the money.

Mr. Sampson, of Middleboro, deeming it his duty to hang himself last week, conscientiously performed the duty. Give Greece the density of population that Massachusetts has, and it would be the wealthiest State in the Union.

Mark Twain writes to a life insurance company to know if they will pay him money on a dog-life that they do on an earthquake. Hard things are said about King Victor Emanuel—some say he is a monster.

He is held responsible for all Italian blunders in the late crisis. During the rebellion the United States expended annually more money for the support of armies than all the nations of Europe expended in supporting the enormous armies they maintain.

At a Russian dinner the orchestra was supplanted when the officers of our squadron called for Hail Columbia. The manager expressed his regrets, but he had never seen the man.

A prisoner in the Pennsylvania State Prison was some time since uttering blasphemous remarks about Jesus Christ, but he was struck with apoplexy and died immediately.

An English journal as a spokesman, a tattle-tale, and a spy. He wasn't an Englishman, thank heaven. The Russians are a very eccentric people. If they get drunk, as they often do, it shows itself in surprising kindness.

But, being confined to the male sex, the practice is not very popular among the American visitors. Prince Galitzin, a nephew of the Governor of Moscow, entertained the officers of our squadron with a princely dinner at his banquet hall, built in the time of Catherine II., and still maintained in the original style.

A case is now on trial at Milwaukee, Wis., in which the plaintiff claims a division of the proceeds of a lawsuit between himself and the defendant in 1838. The business of the firm remained unsettled for years after the death of the defendant, but before the firm was dissolved, the defendant became rich out of the business. The plaintiff claims a large amount as his part of the proceeds of the business.

A mysterious robbery has taken place at Hartford, Mr. Wilcox, before going to Europe, is confident he made a special deposit of $20,000 in U. S. securities in the Hartford Bank. Upon his return he found the deposit had been made, but he could not remember that he made the deposit. Mr. Wilcox is confident that he did. One of the bonds has been traced to Philadelphia, where it was exchanged for a five-cent note. No other clue appears to the robbers.

At the recent International Workingmen's Congress, held at Geneva, a discussion took place under the best means of maintaining the rate of wages. At the close of the debate the following proposition was adopted: "While admitting that in all cases, the rate of wages is a state of war, workers should not aid to one another for the defense of their wages, the Congress declares that there is higher object to be attained by the suppression of the wages principle—recognition of the study and practice of economical processes based on justice and reciprocity."

The penal hospital of the Russians to the American naval officers knows no bounds. After a most suspicious reception given by Prince Galitzin, a young man of immense income, they were entertained by a lively sea-fight on the lake, between two ships, which sailed around each other in radiant style, hammering away like good fellows for a while, and then blowing up with great violence, and filling the air with various colored stars, rockets, serpents, and we know not what all, ended the display, which was witnessed and admired by thousands of people collected in the park by permission of the Prince.

LOUISVILLE JOURNAL

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1896.

The last rainy day of the season. Scotland is overcast with Americans. Western prairies are swarming with hundreds of thousands.

Salmon are now found in the Thames. The cholera has more victims in clear than in stormy weather. The President is busy collecting material for his annual message.

The Republicans of New York are drawing on the members of the fire department for political funds. They have been catching five-pound lads in the cellars of Dayton, Ohio, during the flood.

Warm days have done wonders for the vines of France. A new jewelry establishment in New York is styled "The diamond parlor."

Monks are about to reach London to howl for the restoration of the papacy. The Queen of Hanover was noted for her charity and loving kindness.

In Paris, the dresses of ladies are vanquished. What's that? An extra tilt? An American is teaching Johnny Bull the science of horsemanship.

It takes a whole year for one man to make a square yard of tapestry. In California, a Chinaman cannot testify against a white man or a negro.

The people of Arizona are impatient at Congress for not making a law to prevent Oregon from shipping $1,000,000 in treasure during the last eight months.

A Sacramento establishment turns out 24,000 cans of preserved fruit. A Washington soldier stole the artificial leg of his sleeping comrade.

Fifty "tried and true men" have sailed from California to join the army. Ex-Governor John S. Shelly is running a wagon train in Mexico.

In England "old faced type" is regarded as the most elegant letter in typography. In respect of "conductivity" the old cable is better than the new.

The New Haven Register has been greatly enlarged. It could not be improved. A New York critic advises Bismarck not to wear white stockings in Maria Stuarda.

A bridge 22 miles long and 214 feet wide, cost $60,000,000, is talked of at Dover, England. The "bright, pretty, arch and pigmy" actress, Miss Lydia Thompson, is coming to America.

Katie Moore committed suicide in Chicago. She is no more. Mem. for agriculturists—every Fair should have attractive features.

Another strenuous effort is to be made for the consolidation of New York and Brooklyn. The vines of California are loaded down with fruit of unusual size and sweetness.

Texas has exported within a short time a million dollars worth of cattle. A literary man in Montreal has "levanted" with $25,000.

A young Englishman in New York, who has been engaged to marry, has been made heir to $50,000. A Connecticut husband has cowered a photographer for selling photographs of his wife disguised with whiskers.

England has a Sisterhood of the Dried-eyes, who are to escape maiden notoriety by being educated for nurses in India. The names of Edwin Booth "and a young and accomplished lady of Philadelphia" make current matrimonial gossip.

Philadelphia officials once denied Gen. Andrew Jackson the hospitalities of the city, as they did Andrew Johnson. Forty-eight millions of gallons of petroleum oil have been shipped from the United States in the last year.

The English build iron-clad eight inches thick, and then make a rifle gun which will pierce it as if it were a pine plank. The Empress Charlotte wants possession of her husband for her husband's use, but there is a little family difficulty about the money.

Mr. Sampson, of Middleboro, deeming it his duty to hang himself last week, conscientiously performed the duty. Give Greece the density of population that Massachusetts has, and it would be the wealthiest State in the Union.

Mark Twain writes to a life insurance company to know if they will pay him money on a dog-life that they do on an earthquake. Hard things are said about King Victor Emanuel—some say he is a monster.

He is held responsible for all Italian blunders in the late crisis. During the rebellion the United States expended annually more money for the support of armies than all the nations of Europe expended in supporting the enormous armies they maintain.

At a Russian dinner the orchestra was supplanted when the officers of our squadron called for Hail Columbia. The manager expressed his regrets, but he had never seen the man.

A prisoner in the Pennsylvania State Prison was some time since uttering blasphemous remarks about Jesus Christ, but he was struck with apoplexy and died immediately.

An English journal as a spokesman, a tattle-tale, and a spy. He wasn't an Englishman, thank heaven. The Russians are a very eccentric people. If they get drunk, as they often do, it shows itself in surprising kindness.

But, being confined to the male sex, the practice is not very popular among the American visitors. Prince Galitzin, a nephew of the Governor of Moscow, entertained the officers of our squadron with a princely dinner at his banquet hall, built in the time of Catherine II., and still maintained in the original style.

A case is now on trial at Milwaukee, Wis., in which the plaintiff claims a division of the proceeds of a lawsuit between himself and the defendant in 1838. The business of the firm remained unsettled for years after the death of the defendant, but before the firm was dissolved, the defendant became rich out of the business. The plaintiff claims a large amount as his part of the proceeds of the business.

A mysterious robbery has taken place at Hartford, Mr. Wilcox, before going to Europe, is confident he made a special deposit of $20,000 in U. S. securities in the Hartford Bank. Upon his return he found the deposit had been made, but he could not remember that he made the deposit. Mr. Wilcox is confident that he did. One of the bonds has been traced to Philadelphia, where it was exchanged for a five-cent note. No other clue appears to the robbers.

At the recent International Workingmen's Congress, held at Geneva, a discussion took place under the best means of maintaining the rate of wages. At the close of the debate the following proposition was adopted: "While admitting that in all cases, the rate of wages